84 More Warships Asked for New Naval Expansion

House Committee Chairman Vinson Presents Bill Calling for Expenditure of Another $1,200,000,000.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 17 — The United States acted today to facilitate the delivery of war planes to the Allies by authorizing the ships to be flown across American borders.

* * *

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 17—A new $1,200,000 expansion of the navy to provide for 84 additional warships was proposed in an administration-approved bill today by Chairman Vinson, Democrat of Georgia, of the house naval committee.

Vinson said that he and Chairman Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts of the senate naval committee would introduce identical bills today providing for this big boost in the navy amounting to a 22 per cent increase in the fleet's present authorized strength of 1,700,000 tons.

"World conditions make it absolutely imperative that the navy be built up as rapidly as possible," Vinson told reporters.

President Signs Bill

Vinson spoke just after President Roosevelt had signed into law two previous bills authorizing a naval air force of 10,000 planes and 16,000 pilots and increasing the fleet by 21 new warships, and 22 auxiliary naval vessels.

The aviation expansion bill authorizes spending of specific sums at 20 airbases and also permits spending of $20,000,000 for building and improving reserve and auxiliary bases.

Meanwhile, at the White House, President Roosevelt and congressional leaders talked about the legislative and war situations today, leaving up to the legislators a decision on whether congress should adjourn or merely recess during the national political conventions.

An early administration proposal for building a separate Atlantic fleet was forecast in congressional quarters today, while senators discussed the wisdom of doubling the army to total 750,000 men.

Inasmuch as the main fleet is being kept in the Pacific, well-informed sources explained that talk of developing Atlantic defenses arose from the possibility of Allied defeat in the European war.

The basis of a second fleet, these sources said, would be a newtype of fast cruiser of 20,000 to 28,000 tons. Rep. Maas (R-Minn) predicted that it would be heavily-armored, with 11-inch guns, and would be designed especially to withstand aerial bombing.

Necessity Hinted

Rear Admiral Ernest J. King said in a radio speech last night that a two-ocean navy might be a future requirement for the United States.

"For the present, however," he conselled, "we must concentrate on building up the navy now authorized. When we get along with that building we can consider the advisability of a two-ocean navy." Congress has authorized a broad expansion of the fleet.

As for the army, the suggestion for increasing it to 750,000 men was voiced by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) a measure now before congress would place the authorized strength at 375,000, and

PETAIN TELLS OF PEACE PLAN

Premier on Radio Reports Contact with Germany To End Fighting.

By The Associated Press

BORDEAUX, June 17—Marshal Petain, France's new premier, announced over the radio today that "it is necessary to try to end the fighting."

"I made contact with the adversary last night, asking him as soldier to soldier to seek with me the means to stop the fight," the 84-year-old hero of the last World war said.

Petain, whose indomitable defense of Verdun 24 years ago gave France her watchword, "they shall not pass," made his momentous announcement that France was seeking an armistice after a meeting of the new cabinet he formed last night in the republic's darkest hour.

No Reply Yet

The cabinet convened to "await developments." There still was no announcement of any German reply to Petain's request for an armistice.

The aged marshal-premier said that France had entered into contact with Germany through the intermediation of Spain.

The premier made his radio address at 12:30 p. m. (7:30 a. m. Marion time) after a series of dramatic conferences during which the military reverses and the future were discussed.

His announcement of peace overtures was no surprise, since the formation of his government generally was accepted as a prelude to a request for an armistice.

Succeeds Reynaud

He succeeded Paul Reynaud last night as head of France after Reynaud cabinet had spent a day in long discussions, bearing largely on the United States offer of help for the Allies.

So far as was known, fighting was still going on. A morning communique by the French high command had said battle was raging "in the region of Laigle and Chateaudun, as well as on the line of the Loire and south of Avallon."

The nation was in the greatest peril of its life from the unrelenting advance of 150 German divisions, between 2,000,000 and 2,500,000 men.

Save for a few gunners, held to cover the retirement, the French had been reported in dispatches from Basel, Switzerland, as having abandoned the entire half-billion dollar Maginot line, once the symbol of their security from invasion from the east.

15 FLIERS DIE AS FOUR SHIPS CRASH IN AIR

Twelve Victims Counted in Collision of Army Bombers Over New York City.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 17—Twelve army fliers were killed today when two twin-motored Douglas bombing planes crashed at 2,000 feet over Bellerose, Queens, just within New York City.

Officials at Mitchel Field, Long Island flying station from where the planes had taken off a few minutes earlier, said they believed that 12 was the number of men in the two ships. However, they said one other enlisted man had asked to go along and that it was not known whether he was aboard.

Police said one man was injured when he bailed out by parachute.

The first body to be identified was that of Corp. Francis X. Deeley, a radio operator.

Witnesses said the planes were part of a group flying in V formation and that when one ship attempted to cross over another during a change of formation their wings locked together.

Plunging earthward in flames, the pilot of one ship apparently struggled to avoid a row of newly built one-family houses, witnesses said, and managed to crash in the street.

Bodies of the victims, all severely burned and mangled, were placed in army ambulances and returned to Mitchel Field.

Wreckage of the planes and flaming gasoline was scattered over half a dozen houses in the neighborhood. Firemen extinguished several blazes.

The scene of the crash is a densely populated suburban area in the vicinity of the Creedmoor state hospital, on whose grounds one flier landed by parachute, suffering a broken leg.

Officers at Mitchel Field, army flying station on Long Island, said the planes were flying in formation with several other ships when the accident occurred.

THREE KILLED IN CRASH AT TULSA AIR FIELD

By The Associated Press

TULSA, OKLA., June 17—A mid-air collision between two training planes killed two students and an instructor today six miles east of Municipal airport. Two persons on the ground were injured.

The two ships crashed while flying at an estimated altitude of 2,000 feet, burst into flames and plummeted to the earth, witnesses said:

The dead were tentatively identified as:

Louis Seibel, 19, student at a training school (Spartan).

John Langmaid, instructor at the school.

Flying Cadet Daniel B. Stone, 23, government cadet at the school.

The motor of one plane smashed through the roof of the two-room house of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evanoff.

Enna Evanoff, 12, was struck on the head by a flying piston. She was believed not seriously injured.

Seibel was from St. Louis, Mo., Langmaid's home was in Boys Mayer, Pa., and Stone's in Washington, Kas.

NEW MARION SCHOOL HEAD BEGINS DUTIES

E. E. Holt Starts 5-Year Term as Superintendent.

Edward E. Holt, Marion's new superintendent of schools, took over his duties at the school administration building, and immediately went into the task of preparing for the coming school year.

Mr. Holt, head of the schools at Hillsboro, O. since 1932, succeeds C. A. Hudson as superintendent here. His five-year term became effective yesterday.

He and Mrs. Holt and their two children Jack, 15, and Jane, 4, have established residence at 350 South Vine street. They arrived last Tuesday.

Since then Mr. Holt has been engaged in interviewing applicants for various school positions and Friday and Saturday attended the Ohio Education association meeting at Cedar Point.

No date has been set yet for his first meeting with the Board of education at which it is expected teaching contracts will be granted for next year.

Mr. Holt said it is not certain whether any decision will be made at the next board meeting on selection of new principals for Harding High school and Vernon Heights Junior High school. One of his first tasks is to interview various applicants for these positions.

As far as other positions in the school system are concerned, the teaching corps for next year will be generally the same as last year, Mr. Holt reported.

Mr. Holt[illegible] no plans as [illegible] of his plans for the future. He is now on a business visit to Columbus and is not expected back in Marion for several days.

HITLER, MUSSOLINI TO STUDY APPEAL

Berlin Stunned, Then Amazed at French Developments.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 17 — France, crushed under the German military machine, appealed for peace today.

Adolf Hitler and his axis partner, Premier Mussolini of Italy, will meet to decide on what terms France can have it. (In Rome it was said the meeting probably would be at Munich tomorrow.)

The conference of the creators of the axis, which will have an important bearing on the war against Britain, was announced after Marshal Petain, aged soldier-premier of France, offered in a radio speech to lay down arms.

A bulletin from Hitler's headquarters announcing plans to discuss the terms of surrender caught Berlin at the mid-afternoon rush.

World Wonders What Comes After French Collapse

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

With France compelled to give way to the Teutonic avalanche which is grinding down the country, what next?

England has sworn to battle to the end. The measure of British difficulty in performing this great task will, to my mind, depend in considerable degree on the peace terms imposed on France.

In carrying on the fight against the most powerful war-machine ever known, England will depend as heretofore on the vast superiority of her resources and on her tremendous navy to win through. But if she should lose the aid of the French navy to Germany, she would be confronted with a grave situation.

The British navy—something more than 2,000,000 tonnage—is the biggest thing afloat. The French fleet totals about 819,000 tons and the Italian 718,000 German did have some 579,000 tons at the outbreak of the war, but much of that has been destroyed.

Simple Arithmetic

Now if you will do a bit of simple arithmetic you will see that the addition of the French fleet to that of Italy, and what is left of the German navy, would bring the German-Italian strength perilously close to that of Britain. Where then would this leave England's control of the seas?

Dispatches indicate England hopes the French fleet will be turned over to her. Supposing, however, that Hitler threatens the French with terrible penalties if this is done. That certainly would raise a dire problem.

The same might be said of the French air-force. Theoretically, it would be feasible for the French to send their planes winging across the channel to their Ally. Practically such an operation might result in fierce German sanctions.

We shall have to wait and see what the fates produce.

It is an ironic circumstance that the Anglo-French brotherhood should have been encountering steady defeat while possessed of enough potential resources to win a dozen wars. They just haven't been able to get those resources into operation fast enough to meet the onslaught of the Hitlerian military creation.

Speculates on Russia

Russia's sudden military occupation of the Baltic states, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, very naturally has caused a burst of anxious speculation abroad as to whether this signals Bolshevist intervention in the war.

I should say that the Red maneuver is partly defensive against any possible sharp practice by Germany, and partly to improve the Soviet strategic position for offensive operations, if Moscow sees fit to move.

The Bolsheviats have no love for either the Berlin-Rome axis or Britain, but Moscow might help either in pursuit of its own objectives.

Moscow Consolidates Position in Baltic in Series of Swift Moves.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 17 — Soviet Russian troops marched into unresisting Estonia and Latvia today, climaxing a series of swift moves which consolidated Russia's position in the Baltic.

News that the Red army was on the march was disclosed by the Russian radio only a few hours after the two countries had yielded to Soviet demands that they permit unimpeded passage of troops and reorganize their governments.

Lithuania capitulated to similar demands Saturday, and Russian troops already are occupying strategic points there.

Tass, official news agency, announced the agreement of Estonia and Latvia to the Russian demands which, Tass said, were motivated by a need for "honest and conscientious observance" of mutual assistance pacts with the two Baltic states.

Russian Demands

The Soviet asked new governments "capable and willing to ensure honest implementation" of the pacts and free passage of troops to "forestall possible provocational actions against Soviet garrisons" installed in Estonia and Latvia under the pacts signed last fall.

(Estonia has an area of about 18,350 square miles and approximately one and one-quarter million inhabitants; Latvia has an area of 20,000 square miles and about 2,000,000 inhabitants. Their total peoples no not equal the population of Moscow.)

Some dispatches to Stockholm interpreted the Russian move as the first step toward participation in the European war.

Reports Berlin Reaction

(The Stockholm newspaper Aftenbladet reported Berlin opinion as "rather reserved" and said the Soviet action was not exactly welcomed." Another Berlin dispatch, however, said it was felt that "Soviet intention were known to the Germans in advance."

(Some Allied observers in London were hopefully seeking signs of Russian action against the increasing threat of a Hitler-dominated Europe. But reserved judgment was the general attitude, and there was little gross speculation.)

FIGHTING STILL RAGES AS PETAIN OFFERS TO QUIT

LONDON, June 17 — Great Britain authoritatively stated today her resolute determination to continue the war until victory is won.

By The Associated Press

FRENCH troops still fought desperately today hours after Premier-Marshal Petain broadcast an announcement that he had asked Germany for an armistice—the ninth nation to succumb to Hitler's conquering armies in two years.

Renewed French resistance was reported in a battle on the plain behind Pontarlier, near the Swiss border.

Large numbers of German motorized troops, roaring south to join the Italian armies and complete the encirclement of tiny Switzerland, found their path blocked by hard-fighting French infantry.

Petain Shaken With Emotion

In a voice shaken with emotion, Premier Petain, 84-year-old Word war "Hero of Verdun" and the man who gave French her watchword "They Shall Not Pass!" heralded French capitulation with the declaration:

"It is necessary to try to end the fighting."

Britain announced she would carry on the fight, despite the loss of her ally.

There was some doubt whether France would be granted a separate peace—except under terms of unconditional surrender — and Hitler prepared to meet with Premier Mussolini to discuss the development.

Contact Made In Night

Germany, it was said, would not permit France to reorganize her broken armies, under an armistice with Germany, to assault Italy on her southern frontiers.

As far as was known, fighting was still going on.

Petain announced France's readiness to lay down her arms in a broadcast from Bordeaux.

"I made contact with the adversary last night, asking him as soldier to soldier to seek with me the means to stop the fight," he said.

Even without knowledge of whether the powerful French fleet, second biggest in Europe, would be involved in the projected French surrender, Britain voiced a grim determination to "fight on to the end."

England was told by Sir Neville Henderson, the last British ambassador to Berlin, that a German invasion may be expected "this month or July."

Authorized Nazis in Berlin said bluntly:

"No separate armistice with France is imaginable, except in terms of complete capitulation."

The Berlin radio broadcast an official announcement that Marshal Petain "has proclaimed France's capitulation."

It said Hitler would meet Premier Mussolini of Italy shortly to discuss the situation.

Two hours before Petain spoke, an official French army communique said fighting was continuing.

New Law Gives Law Library More Funds at Expense of City, County

Legislation Provides $3,000 a Year for Law Books, Mostly from City's Share of Court Funds.

Municipal court officials have made the first of a series of monthly payments provided for by a new state law which will net the Marion County Law Library $3,000 a year and which may result in a revenue loss of approximately $2 000 a year to the city of Marion.

The payment just made was for $430 69 approximately half the amount received by the court in fines and costs in criminal cases last month The amount will vary from time to time but a part of each month's receipts will be turned over to the law library association until the annual payment of $3 000 has been met, court officials said The fund is to be used to purchase books in a library of law books maintained at the courthouse and supervised by a committee of the Marion County Bar association.

Court officials said that under terms of the law the county will lose all of its revenue from the court, which annually averages about $1 000 a year, and that the remaining $2 000 will have to come from the city's share of court receipts

In announcing the payment Municipal Judge Hazen said he opposed it very, very much, but that he was advised by State Examiner C W Corbin who has been examining records of city offices for several weeks to start the payments

Effective Last Jan 1

Judge Hazen pointed out that the payments were provided for in a law enacted by the state last fall but not placed in effect here previously The law became effective last Jan 1

Judge Hazen said the reason for his opposition is the fact that the $3,000 a year actually will come out of the general operating funds of the city and county since the money given to the library otherwise would go to the city and county who finance the court's operation

The law also is being protested by municipal court and city officials throughout the state for the same reason the principal objections coming from cities where $3,000 represents a major portion of the municipal court's revenue

Former Source of Funds

Previously, the law library was financed solely by the county, part of its funds coming from the county's share of municipal court receipts and the remainder from a county appropriation The annual amount paid to the fund from these sources has ranged from $500 to $700 officials said

However James E Reed secretary-treasurer of the law library fund said he believed the effect of the new law would be less severe than it might appear on the surface since it would be impossible for the law library to spend all of the $3 000 each year He estimated that the library's expenditures will run between $1 200 and $1 500 annually and he explained that the remainder will be returned to the city and county

Effect On May Funds

The effect of the law is seen in the court's report for May which lists receipts and disbursements of $1 208 25 Of this amount $263 38 was from fees and costs in civil cases and is not taken into consideration in computing payments to the law library The remainder, or $944 87 was from fines and costs in criminal cases and it was from this amount that the law library's share was taken

Following is the distribution of the court's May receipts and in parenthesis are listed amounts which would have been paid under the old law city of Marion $863 18 ($1 070 47) Marion county, $11 ($108 72), state treasurer, $103 40 (same) and law library fund $430 60 ($26 68)

STEEL PRODUCTION NEARING CAPACITY

Foreign and Domestic Defense Needs Boost Rate.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 17—Steel production is nearing capacity and defense requirements, both from abroad and domestic, may result in allocations for essential purposes, the magazine "Steel" said today

Last week's operations rate was 86 per cent of capacity, a gain of 4½ points

Steel mills have been pushing deliveries as rapidly as possible, "Steel" said, to clear books for armament requirements and to avoid congestion.

Construction of the 22 naval vessels authorized by congress will require well over 75,000 tons of steel. The Allies have inquired for 34 000 tons of hot and cold rolled and galvanized sheets

Rising price in manganese ore has caused an advance of $20 per ton on ferromanganese and $4 to $10 a ton on spiegeleisen. Silicon alloy prices have been increased $5 to $10 a ton according to grade

Railroads last week bought 3,260 freight cars and 16 locomotives

Scrap continued to advance, the steelworks composite last week reaching $19.33, an increase of 66 cents, highest since the end of last November The same influence caused a gain of 17 cents in the iron and steel composite, which moved up to $17.76.

Only two districts failed to increase output last week the remaining ten contributing to the 4½-point rise New England at 66 and Cleveland 82 per cent made no change. Detroit increased 26 points to 95 per cent, St. Louis 12 points to 66, Buffalo 6 points to 90, Chicago 5½ points to 91.5, Youngstown 3 points to 70, Birmingham 3 points to 88, Eastern Pennsylvania 3 points to 76, and Pittsburgh 1 point to 81 per cent.

Many of them expressed the hope that they might return here next season to witness and take part in a Grand Circuit session.

Enthusiasm of the sportsmen and the reception given the races by the public are responsible for the announcement that efforts will be made to bring the Grand Circuit to Marion in 1941, Mr Foster said Nothing definite will be known for the present but efforts will be made to book suitable dates in the "grand", he indicated

Three of the four scheduled programs of the Ohio Short Ship were held last week They drew approximately 6,800 attendance, indicating that Marion is a popular spot for harness events. Entries for the local meeting were heavier than for any other in the circuit and many of the top drivers who later will move into the Grand Circuit were active here

Last Program Rained Out

Rain in midafternoon Saturday flooded the fairground oval and washed out the closing card As a result entrance fees paid for horses nominated in the early closing events will be refunded The stables quartered here, which crowded fairground facilities to overflow, began leaving late Saturday They moved to Canton where races will be held four nights starting Tuesday

Financial report on the Marion program has not yet been prepared but will be announced later this week, Mr Foster said The racing association and the Women's Board of Marion City Hospital, sponsors of the races are particularly grateful for the fine reception given the races by local people, he asserted

SCHOOLS TO HELP MEET DEMAND FOR MECHANICS

Vocational Departments To Train Defense Workers.

By The Associated Press

Responding to an increasing demand for specialized workers, vocational schools and industries throughout the nation reported today they are giving greater attention to training men for whom there may be jobs under the national defense program

Some public high schools will operate their industrial facilities this summer for the first time Job-eager students, some of them middle-aged, are crowding trade and technical classrooms. Industries are preparing young employes for higher jobs

Congressional leaders have given consideration to providing federal financial assistance to promoting skilled worker training if sufficient need develops

A nationwide survey by The Associated Press disclosed a shortage of skilled workers only in scattered industrial communities, particularly in the northeast, middle west and Pacific coast regions.

A sharp speedup of industrial activity, however, might quickly drain available pools of labor adequately qualified for technical openings, it was indicated.

France's Request for Armistice Stirs Hope in Italy War Will Be Short

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 17—France's request for an armistice with Germany was received in Rome today with jubilation by the Italians, who believed the step indicated the war soon would be over.

The Italians were expected to intensify their bombardment of the British naval bases at Malta in the Mediterranean and at Aden off East Africa.

Some newspapers said air attacks on these bases and other Mediterranean points were preliminary to land action against British territory as well as sea attacks on the Mediterranean fleet

When Premier Mussolini declared war on Great Britain and France, he specifically said that Egypt need not fear attack as long as she was neutral but the Rome newspaper Il Tevere indicated today that Egypt, bound to Britain by military pacts, still might be one of the main Italian objectives.

(Egypt has severed diplomatic relations with Italy and warned her she would fight if Italy attacked Egyptian territory or troops)

Italy, still active principally in the air in her first week of warfare, said today in a headquarters communique that her aerial raiders had bombarded Allied naval bases and flying fields yesterday at Malta, Corsica and Tunisia.

Reconnaissance activity continued in the Alps along the Franco-Italian borders, and in North Africa there was clashes of Italian and British troops.

In British raids, the communique said, a civilian was killed at Savona and several others were wounded, and at Cagliari six aviation technicians were killed and 30 wounded in an attack on an airdrome.

The British, using tanks, attacked Italian outposts in Libya.

In the Mediterranean sea and in the air, the Italians declared their forces destroyed 40 French and two British planes and an Allied submarine, and announced that anti-aircraft batteries brought down four other Allied planes during air raids on Genoa the night of June 15-16.

PITTMAN ANSWERS LINDBERGH'S TALK

Senator Criticizes Statements of Flier on Defense.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 17—Replying to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's demand that the United States stop making "gestures with an empty gun," Senator Pittman, Democrat of Nevada, has proposed that the flier "cease efforts to create unfounded war fear and lack of confidence in our government"

Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said in a radio speech Sunday night

"If Colonel Lindbergh desires to help in our national defense, let him throw aside all of his false political advisers, and volunteer in the United States government as an expert in aviation."

Follows Lindbergh Talk

Pittman's speech followed a broadcast Saturday night in which Lindbergh declared

"This dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead us only to failure in the future as it has in the past • • •

We demand that foreign nations refrain from interfering in our hemisphere, yet we constantly interefere in theirs • • • we have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czecho-Slovakia to Poland, to Finland to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send

To this Pittman replied:

"Colonel Lindbergh evidently desires and intends to stop the purchase of materials in this country by Great Britain and France • • • it is significant that when the United States had its markets open to Germany for all the materials, arms, and instruments of war that have built up Hitler's brutal machine, there was no such argument from Colonel Lindbergh."

Quick Aid Impossible

Lindbergh contended that it was useless to talk of sending American troops to Europe now, for we would need months of preparation before we could train and equip even a small army"

Pittman said

"The United States has no desire to conquer Germany We simply intend to prevent Hitler from conquering any country on the western hemisphere • • • would it be to the welfare of the United States if Hitler were stopped in Europe, if he were stopped, there would be no threat against the United States

In a Boston address advertised as an "answer" to Lindbergh Col Henry Breckinridge, the flier's former personal counsel declared that "the blood-drenched Hitler is at our gates" He criticized those who would try to "lull the American people into false sense of security" He did not mention Lindbergh

NAVY

Lodge explained that he had not yet decided whether to press his larger figure immediately

"It has become apparent," he said, "that the German victories have not yet been due to any secret weapons but to the coordination of men and machines Ample manpower in the fundamental necessity of an adequate military machine"

Program Nearly Complete

Congress has virtually completed action on President Roosevelt's defense recommendations Weekend developments in the preparedness program included

1 Secretary Ickes appointed a defense committee in the interior department to arrange for quick movement of natural resources into preparedness work

2 The C I O forecast comparatively slight reduction in the number of unemployed because of industrial production for defense purposes There would be jobs at most for 700 000 or 800,000 more workers, it said.

3. Solicitor General Francis Biddle declared that fifth column problems were no cause for mass hysteria or justification of mob violence He disclosed plans to double the patrol along the Mexican and Canadian borders to keep out Aliens without proper entrance papers.

Petain Asks Armistice for France

edly captured Orleans on the river Loire, where Joan of Arc won her great victory—the new French cabinet met at Bordeaux to "await developments" on France's capitulation offer.

The German high command reported its troops, "relentlessly pursuing" the retreating French armies, had crossed the Loire river.

It was behind this river, some 65 miles south of Paris, that the French had hoped to reform their broken lines for a defense which former Premier Paul Reynaud said would be carried into "the last corner of France"

Huge Force Surrounded

About 1,000,000 French soldiers were reported surrounded in the Alsace-Lorraine area.

Most of the Maginot garrison—500,000 or more men—were withdrawing southward to a new line of defense pegged on Belfort in the west, fighting a rearguard action as they retired, Swiss reports said.

In Berlin, authorized sources threw cold water on rumors of "French capitulation offers."

The German high command announced fast-moving Nazi units had pushed through to the Swiss border near Besancon, France, about 200 miles southeast of Paris, closing a ring around entrapped French troops in Alsace and Lorraine.

The Germans were reported to be employing at least 150 divisions—2,000,000-2,500,000 men — including many fresh troops, in a massive effort to smash French resistance

While the question of whether France would—or could—continue to fight, remained uppermost in the capitals of the world, Britain voiced anew her determination to battle on to the end.

Authoritative sources in London said that even if the French found further resistance on their soil impossible, Britain would fight to the end and that she would be aided in the struggle by the French fleet—second largest in Europe.

There seemed no reason to doubt that the fall of the Reynaud government was occasioned by a split on the policy which France should pursue in her hour of destiny

Study All Phases

It was made plain that the French cabinet, in its meetings yesterday, had closely scrutinized the possible extent of material assistance from the United States offered by President Roosevelt The French radio also reported the cabinet had studied a "message" from Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill, but the nature of the message was not disclosed.

Germany, intent on giving the French armies no opportunity to make a stand, reported that her troops were advancing steadily everywhere on a front extending from the channel coast to the Swiss border.

Sharing the spotlight with the French cabinet upheaval was Soviet Russia's swift encroachment on the little Baltic nations ranged along Germany's northern frontier

With an army estimated at 500 000 men already reported quartered on unresisting Lithuania, Russia announced that Estonia and Latvia had yielded to demands for free passage of Soviet troops and had agreed to form new governments.

There were evidences of increasing activity in the newly opened war zone in the Mediterranean

Italian bombers attacked air bases in southern France, French Corsica and Malta, and reported destruction of 40 French and two British planes Sharp fighting also was reported along the frontier between Egypt and Italian Libya

Dispatches from Alexandria said Italian warplanes had raided several Egyptian outposts.

British bombers set fire to Italian airdrome buildings at Diredawa, Ethiopia, and at Macnaca. The British also reported they had sunk four Italian submarines in recent action, while the Italians said they had destroyed one allied undersea craft.

SENATE TACKLING ITS LAST BIG JOB

Defense Program Expected To Meet Little Opposition.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 17 — Amid persistent efforts of administration leaders to adjourn congress next week-end, the senate buckled down today to its last big job—action on the billion-dollar defense tax program.

It will be followed by debate on the $1,700,000,000 supplemental defense bill, but little opposition to that measure is expected

The house, in the meantime, will vote on accepting senate amendments to the $1,224,791,357 relief bill, notably President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 war refuge fund.

All factions agreed that congress could clean up its work by Saturday, but there was a big question as to whether the leaders could command the votes for adoption of an adjournment resolution Republicans and a number of Democrats want to stay in session during the European war crisis.

House leaders, however, were understood to believe that they could develop a majority in favor of adjournment In the senate, one administration poll showed about 50 members favoring adjournment, while a Republican count divided the 96 senators evenly.

The tax measure should pass the senate by Wednesday, leaders said Several controversial amendments were pending, including one by Senator Byrd, (D-Va) to make the 10 per cent tax payments apply retroactively to 1939 income

In approving the tax legislation, the senate finance committee wiped out projected increases in tobacco levies. The latter, as passed by the house, included an increase from 6 to 7 cents a package in the cigaret tax

The senate committee also wrote in an amendment requiring a 10 per cent reduction in non-defense expenditures of federal agencies.

Hecker - Ruckman Services Read at Home Near Here

WHITE peonies, palms and ferns grouped around the fireplace in the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hecker of the Bethlehem road formed the improvised altar before which their daughter, Mildred, and James Merritt Ruckman of Pittsburgh exchanged marriage vows yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. At each side were matching silver candelabra holding fourteen white tapers. Baskets of peonies and garden flowers decorated the other rooms of the home.

Rev. T. Clark Davis, pastor of the Methodist church in Lafayette, O., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, read the single ring ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives and close friends.

The bride's attendant was her cousin, Miss Mary Schweinfurth of Prospect, and Mr. Ruckman's best man was his brother, Kenneth Ruckman of Minerva, O.

The bride wore a princess style gown of traditional white satin, the sweetheart neckline accented with designs embroidered in pearls. Her fingertip length veil of bridal illusion was caught to her hair with orange blossoms. Her bouquet was fashioned of white roses, gypsophila and plumosus, tied with white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Schweinfurth wore a Scarlett O'Hara gown in a delicate shade of pink mousseline-de-soie. Her flowers were pink roses, centaurea and plumosus, tied with streamers of pink and blue tulle. She wore a three-strand pearl necklace and carried a lace-trimmed shell pink chiffon handkerchief, a gift of the bride.

Miss Edna Schweinfurth of Columbus, a cousin of the bride, wore a gown of pink faille taffeta and white net, and a corsage of gardenias, when she lighted the candles.

The bride's mother was costumed in dusty rose lace and her flowers were a corsage of sweetpeas. Mrs. Ruckman wore a navy blue lace dress and a corsage of white roses.

Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. Kenneth Ruckman of Minerva, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, during which time the candles were lighted.

The musical program included "To a Wild Rose," by MacDowell, "A Brown Bird Singing" by Wood, "La Estrellita," by Ponce, "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Promise Me."

As the bride entered the room on the arm of her father, Mrs. Ruckman played the wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

A reception for 50 guests followed the ceremony. Mrs. Clifford Shrine, Mrs. John Goyer, Miss Ruth Storer and Miss Florence Almendinger presided in the dining room. They and Miss Edna Schweinfurth were presented with compacts by the bride.

In the center of the table was a three-tiered wedding cake in the bride's colors of blue and pink, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. On either side of the cake were double candelabra with white tapers. White tapers and a large bowl of pink peony buds and blue delphinium decorated the buffet.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., and New York, Mrs. Ruckman wore an ensemble of beige and cocoa brown spun rayon. Her gloves and purse were in a tone to match her dark brown hat, and she wore a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

After July 1 the couple will be at home at 4238 Saline street in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Ruckman, a graduate of Ohio State university, has been employed as instructor of history at the Waldo High school. Mr. Ruckman, son of Dr. and Mrs. James M. Ruckman of LaRue, is a graduate of Ohio Northern and Ohio State universities and is associated in the metallurgical department of the Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp. of Pittsburgh.

Guests from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newell of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cheney of Columbus, Rev. and Mrs. Davis and daughter Caroline Ruth of Lafayette, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Ruckman and children Evelyn and Tom of LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ruckman of Minerva and Nelson Bahan of North Lewisburg.

MRS. JOHN T. LODWIG

THE double ring ceremony was used for the wedding of Miss Margaret Ellen McGhee, daughter of L. H. McGhee of Merchant avenue, and John Thomas Lodwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lodwig of 161 Garden street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Wesley Methodist church.

The church was filled with relatives and friends.

The altar before which Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor, read the ceremony, was banked with palms. Taliing ivy decorated a white background and on each side of the altar were tall white baskets filled with delphinium and daisies in blue and yellow, the bride's colors. Five seven-branch candelabra with white tapers were lighted by the bride's cousin and brother-in-law, Miss Zenabella Moehn and Aubrey Thompson. Pews reserved for the families and close friends were marked with bows of white satin ribbon.

A 45-minute program of music preceded the ceremony. Mrs. Willard Ginder, vocalist, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," by Herbert, "Because" by d'Hardelot and "Oh Promise Me" by DeKoven. A string trio composed of Mrs. Herman P. Watson, pianist, Mr. Watson, violinist, and Jess Dowler, cellist, played "Song of Love" by Schubert, "All for You" by Brown, "Indian Love Call" by Friml, "At Dawning" by Cadman, and "Love's Old Sweet Song" by Molloy, and accompanied Mrs. Ginder.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the wedding march from Wagner's Lohengrin," played by the trio, and during the ceremony the trio played softly, "I Love You Truly" by Bond. The Mendelssohn march was played for the recessional.

Miss Mary McGhee, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Evan Gibson, a sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Lodwig were bridesmaids.

Karl E. Parshall of Columbus served Mr. Lodwig as bestman. Ushers were James Almendinger, a cousin of the bridegroom, Felix C. Reber, F. Howard Lawson, and Mr. Thompson and Evan Gibson, brothers-in-law of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore bridal white satin with a floor length skirt. The neck was finished with a square cowl effect with insets of real lace. The lace was repeated in insets in the sleeves from the full shoulders to slim points over the hands, and in three wide insets in the flowing train. Her double veil of illusion was held with satin covered flowers. The circular over-veil was elbow length and was worn over the face until the ceremony began, and the second veil extended the length of the long train. The bride carried a satin-covered prayer book showered with lilies of the valley, and wore a yellow gold cross, gift of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor wore a long, full-skirted and ruffled gown of delphinium blue net, made with a square neckline and short puffed sleeves, and carried yellow roses and blue delphinium. Her hat of gardenias was made with a delphinium blue face veil.

The buttercup yellow net gown worn by Mrs. Gibson, and the wild rose net gown worn by Miss Lodwig were identical with the maid of honor's except that theirs were made with sweetheart necklines. They wore small flower hats with veils matching their dresses, and carried arm bouquets of yellow daisies and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Mae Jarvis of Gallipolis, grandmother of the bride, was in black and white and wore gardenias. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy panorama crepe dress, natural Leghorn hat and white accessories and a shoulder corsage of Briar Cliff roses.

Mrs. C. V. Ward of Gallipolis, aunt of the bride, presided in the dining room for the reception at Ringer's inn on the Prospect road after the wedding. She was assisted by Miss Moehn and Miss Helen Miller, cousins of the bride. One hundred guests were received.

A tiered wedding cake frosted with yellow roses and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, played a tinkling "Lohengrin" march when it was cut by the bride. The music came from a tiny music box concealed in the cake. Blue and yellow flowers decorated the table and buffet.

The bride presented her attendants with double strands of pearls and gave compacts to Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Ginder and Miss Moehn. Mr. Lodwig presented his best man with an initialed tie holder and key chain and gave initialed tie holders to the ushers.

After a wedding trip through the east Mr. and Mrs. Lodwig will be at home at 203 North Seffner avenue. The new Mrs. Lodwig's going-away costume was a green and white printed sheer twin ensemble trimmed in luggage tan, with which she wore a white hat trimmed in luggage tan shade, and white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mrs. Lodwig, a graduate of Harding High school in 1933, is employed in the accounting department of the Marion-Reserve Power Co., and Mr. Lodwig, a Harding graduate in 1930, is employed in the Marion Steam Shovel Co. offices.

Saturday evening, after the rehearsal at the church, the bridegroom's parents entertained 25 guests at a buffet supper at their home.

Guests from out of the city at the wedding were Mrs. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Ward and Miss June Keeton of Gallipolis, Mrs. Cecil Bunn, sister of the bride, and Miss Roberta Ann Bunn of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. B. An improvised altar before the fireplace at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lill of the Bucyrus road was the setting for the marriage of their daughter, Mary Margaret, to Denis... Blessing of Columbus, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. P. E. Smoke, pastor of Calvary Evangelical church, read the ceremony.

The "Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Mary Fox, violinist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Avis Lill, cousin of the bride, as the bride and her attendant, Miss Ruth Stayner of Columbus, descended the stairs to be met by Mr. Blessing and his best man, Allen Tuttle, also of Columbus. Mr. Lill gave his daughter in marriage, and the bride's brother, Jack Lill, seated the guests.

The bride's gown of white sheer was made street length and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a strand of pearls. Her bouquet was fashioned of pink rosebuds and gypsophila. Miss Stayner wore a gown of dusty rose and her flowers were sweet peas and gypsophila.

During the reception which followed the ceremony the bride's aunts, Mrs. W. F. Sharrock and Mrs. Ray Lill presided in the dining room, assisted by Mrs. Ashworth Stover of Galion.

Mr. and Mrs. Blessing will live at 381 Woodland avenue in Columbus. The bride was graduated from Harding High school in 1936 and attended Mercy Hospital Training School for Nurses in Columbus. For the last one and one-half years she has been supervisor of nursing at the Marion County Children's home.

Mrs. Sharrock entertained with a shower Friday evening at her home on East Center street for the pleasure of Miss Lill. She found her gifts concealed beneath an old-fashioned umbrella, and place cards were miniature pink umbrellas. The table, arranged for refreshments, was decorated in pink garden flowers. Awards in games were won by Miss Lillian Meeker and Miss Mary Jane Zachman. Guests included Miss Lill, Miss Meeker, Miss Goldie Ann Williams, Miss Ruth Zachman, Miss Eleanor Mitchell, Miss Mary Jane Zachman, Mrs. Emmett Rogers and Mrs. Paul Lill.

Scheitler of 423 Lee street, were united in marriage Saturday evening at 7 o'clock by Rev. W. H. Kiser of Asbury Methodist church at the parsonage on Davids street. Optimistic Outlook Presented For Home Builders by FHA Adminsitrator

...mistic outlook for home ... 1940 was expressed by Housing Administrator McDonald, who, in sub... the FHA's sixth annual ... congress pointed to last ...ing achievements and ...ent home-mortgage insur... ...es as the basis for the ... prediction.

...menting on the satisfactory ... six years of FHA op... Mr McDonald declared ...proximately 12 000,000 peo... ...e been enabled to improve ...using standards and con... ...under the FHA program ...ing the modernization and ...provisions of the national ...ing act.

Notable Advances Claimed

...s letter to congress trans... ...he FHA's report, Mr ... said that home con... made notable advances ...quality and quantity dur... ...

...e present time he con... ...applications for mortgage ...ance covering new homes are ...ng from 30 to better than 50 ...t ahead of the correspond... ...eeks a year ago and the ...ber of new homes being started under the FHA program is showing weekly gains of as much as 35 per cent. In the week ended May 11 4 377 new small homes were started under FHA inspection, he announced, adding that this was the largest weekly number on record

Developments Summarized

Mr McDonald in his report summarized developments in the residential building field last year. The year was featured by the largest number of nonfarm dwelling units since 1929 with an estimated 465 000 units built he said

The number of new one-family homes privately financed approximately 325 000 was even larger than in 1939 the report declared and it was estimated that the 133 000 new one family homes financed with FHA insured mortgages represented over 40 per cent of all nonfarm homes in this class built during 1939

The quality of home construction also was improved because a larger volume of than ever before was financed with mortgages insured by the FHA Mr McDonald said

Aim at Low Cost Homes

In line with the FHA's constant emphasis on the need for good homes at low cost the administrator said builders and developers are making rapid strides in this direction and private industry today is producing well designed and well constructed dwellings within the financial reach of families with incomes as low as $1 000

Continued progress was achieved during 1939 in making the FHA's underwriting appraisal architectural land planning and technical services valuable to the public the report stated

Progress under the FHA has accomplished at little cost to the government Mr McDonald said with charges against its insurance reserves remaining extremely small at the end of the year and with its income exceeding operating expenses

Starting Jan 1 1940 the administrator concluded the FHA had in effect I believe a completely rounded and highly flexible system for the insurance of mortgages on the most favorable terms in the history of the country—a system directly designed to assist all of our citizens who possibly can do so to undertake the home ownership to which they long have aspired

GARDEN CLINIC

By Victor H Ries

Extension Floriculturist
Ohio State University

Question — Will you please tell me what is wrong with my tulips? I planted the original bulbs three years ago last fall and they bloomed nicely last year and the year before But this year there were more than half of them that did not bloom at all I dug up part of the plants and there were a dozen or more small bulbs with just one leaf each

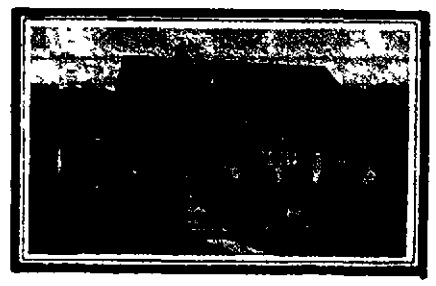
Answer — It is normal for tulips to divide and multiply Unless these small bulbs are dug up after the foliage has died down and are replanted by themselves under good garden conditions they will not be able to develop into blooming bulbs May I therefore suggest that in a few weeks when they die down that you dig them and replant them in a row in some other part of your garden You may if you wish keep them out of the ground until fall before replanting

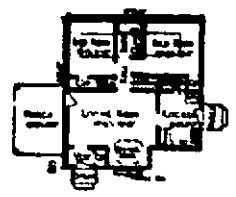
* * *

Question — Will you please give me information regarding the care of my lawn? In the fall and spring I plant fairly good seed after raking the old grass but my lawn still has several bare spots I also notice a mold on the ground In the event I need to fertilize please inform me what type to use and at what time of the year to use it

Answer — I always have felt that the average person uses far too much lawn seed and far too little fertilizer Unless your lawn has bare spots larger than a foot in diameter you will usually find that fertilization will be far more advantageous than reseeding I also question the raking off of the old grass since this if it is left on decomposes and adds organic matter to the soil which most of the soils need badly In regard to fertilization I suggest you ask your county agricultural agent for a copy of our bulletin on lawns, which will give complete instructions on the care and fertilization In the meantime you may apply two pounds of soybean meal to each 100 square feet of lawn or you may use a 10 6-4 commercial fertilizer at the same rate The soybean meal and some commercial fertilizers have nitrogen in organic form so that instead of being all available at once it is available over a longer period of time and does not produce the sudden lush growth of the spring

New Colonial Cottage





Five room efficiency in four rooms. A compact design inside a pleasant Colonial exterior Rooms are large enough for comfort, but the entire house is proportioned small enough to make its building extremely economical

Built-in Beds Provide Answer To Need for Extra Sleeping Facilities

Low roofs produce low walls in upstairs rooms, against which most furniture, particularly chiffoniers and chests of drawers just won't work This situation is found in many story-and-one-half houses and in attic rooms This under the-eave space need not be wasted because there is one piece of furniture—the bed—which can be made to fit a low wall saving full length portions for the taller places

Built in beds have saved many an awkward bedroom and if the bed can be constructed at the time the house is built it usually costs less

Ninety out of the average hundred bedrooms are the same four walls two windows a closet and the wall paper The living room dining room and game room all seem to have had the benefit of thought and attention to the exclusion of the sleeping rooms which inherit the usual stereotyped monotony.

Bunk beds have long been popular for boys rooms week-end cottages, and shore homes, but there are other forms which beds can take making them suitable for any adult bedroom. One takes its theme from a Pullman sleeping car combining the lines of the berth with the decorative canopy of the old four-poster, another offers a solution to the problem created when a closet must be built out into a room By building the closet the same depth as the bed a corner is eliminated the bed occupies a minimum of space and extra storage room is gained under it There are numerous other schemes for making built-in beds attractive

Here are some suggestions Make the bed space six inches longer than a regular bed It is well to have plenty of room If the bed is inclosed on three sides build two singles rather than one double as it is much easier to make If you build a double bed arrange it so two sides are open for ease in making Do not build your framework until you have checked the springs you are going to use or secured the exact width of those offered in the stores A spring and mattress can be 15 inches thick remember this in building your frame or you may get the finished bed so high from the floor that you have to jump in A dormer window at the side of the bed will add greatly to its summer comfort and ventilation

1940 BRINGS RECORD FOR LOAN COMPANIES

First Three Months See Gain of 22 Per Cent Over 1939.

Savings and loan associations, in advancing $226 634 000 in home mortgage loans in the first three months of this year topped all previous quarterly lending records since 1931 the federal home loan bank board announced

The volume of new loans in the first quarter of this year was 22 2 per cent greater than in the same period of 1939 and 21 8 per cent more than in the first quarter of 1937 the previous peak, according to estimates.

In March associations made loans totaling $90 368 000 a gain of 20 per cent over February and of 23 per cent over March 1939 The March total surpassed the average for any month since 1931

Of the total new loans for March $58 5 9 000 or 65 per cent went for the construction and purchase of homes in comparison with $45 541 000 63 5 per cent, in February and $43 959 000, 62 8 per cent in March 1939 The remainder of the advances was used for refinancing reconditioning and for purposes

USE ARCHITECT'S ADVICE

A family which is planning to build a new home under the FHA program and which decides to employ an architect to draw up plans for the home should determine from the first to depend largely on his advice suggests the Federal Housing Administration

It is perfectly proper and sensible to show the architect pictures and floor plans of the house desired but it should be understood by both sides that compromises necessary to bring the cost to the proper level will be agreed upon by both sides

Unless the family is willing to make compromises and to allow the architect to make the fullest possible use of his technical knowledge in planning the exterior and interior, the house may be a failure from the start says the FHA

WORKERS GET MOST OF MODERNIZATION FUNDS

Building Changes Help Solve Employment Problem.

Labor gets the lion's share of the dollars that are going into modernization and repair work this summer in towns and cities throughout the country, according to building observers.

The larger part of labor's share goes to residents of the community in which the work is done and thus plays a sizeable part in alleviating local unemployment. According to reliable estimates, 44 cents of every repair dollar goes to the local workman

Factory, mill and dealer employes get about 2 cents out of every dollar spent in this work. Labor at sources of material such as mines and forests get 7 cents and transportation labor 4 cents, making a total of 76 cents to labor of all types, it is estimated.

The remaining 24 cents goes to building supply dealers, to manufacturers, and to others for raw material and for transportation.

New York's Three Teams Lose Double Bills

Yanks, Dodgers and Giants All Go Down Before Sunday Foes.

BY BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer

There certainly was no joy in Mudville when mighty Casey struck out, but Mudville was a gay carnival town in comparison with the gloom that befogged New York after the double shellackings the Yankees Giants and Dodgers took in Sunday's tussles

Most amazing was the way the lowly Browns turned on the world champion Yankees and beat them 12 6 and 8-5

Paced by Pitcher Vernon Kennedy's home run they outslugged the champs in the first game and then punched their way courageously out of a hole to win the second game in the late innings

Saddest case of the day was the fate of Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt He twirled his best game of the season—a two hitter—but had to accept a 1-0 defeat when one of the two hits turned out to be a home run from the bat of Cincinnati's Linus Frey The Reds won the second 5-2

The Giants cheaty as a pigeon over their eight game winning streak were talking about charging the Pirates admission to get into the Polo grounds However Max Butcher pitched a two-hitter at them and Truett Sewell followed with a creditable performance and the Giants went down helplessly 5 0 and 5 3

Otherwise in the National league the St Louis Cardinals made it four in a row over the Phillies winning 9 3 and 3 1

The Cubs and the Bees split their twin bill the Cubs getting enough inspiration from Claude Passeau's five hitter to win 9 1 after losing the first in 11 innings by dint of some sloppy fielding 5 4

The Boston Red Sox kept atop the American league via the home run route Ted Williams 12th inning homer gave them a 4 3 win over the Chicago White Sox and homers by Pitcher Jack Wilson and Manager Joe Cronin helped win the second game 14-5

The Cleveland Indians socked the Athletics 4 2 on Bob Feller's three-hit hurling and 4 3 on Al Milnar's eight hit performance

The Detroit Tigers made a sweep of their series with the Washington Nats claiming an 8-7 victory on Barney McCosky's pay off single in the eighth that erased two runs

Vitt and Indians Smoke Peace Pipe

Players Drop Demands for New Chief, Then Win Two Games

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND June 17—With drawal of the Cleveland Indians demands for a new manager and agreement by Chief Oscar Vitt to [illegible] put the Tribe back on the American league pennant warpath today

Nearly all of the players attended a peace pow-wow and signed statement taking back [illegible] clamor for Vitt's resignation

Burying ceremonies were completed with club President Alva Bradley's benediction [illegible] matter now

Vitt I am pleased at [illegible] decision reached by the players We will go along and do the best we can All I ever asked was to win ball games I have no animosity toward any of the team

All Kept Secret

As well as all the players meeting was kept secret Twelve team members had protested against Vitt's outspoken criticisms and charged the resultant jitters are pulling the Indians chances of winning the pennant

Two players signed the withdrawal statement The only ones not to sign were outfielder Jeff Heath in the hospital infielder Oscar Grimes recovering from injuries and outfielder Roy Weatherly who walked out of the meeting Weatherly was not one of the original protestants

The Indians spirits and percentage column were help no little by a Sunday double victory over Philadelphia to the tune of 4 to 2 and 4 to 3

Bob Feller's three-hit and 12-strikeout performance made him the master of the first game but it took all the Indian ace had to beat new star which blazed upon the baseball firmament

Porter Vaughn a tall blond left hander just graduated from the University of Richmond (Va) held the Tribe to two hits in seven innings He was removed for a pinch hitter and his successor George Caster lost the game

Shortstop Lou Boudreau of Cleveland hit a home run off Vaughn

Another pitching duel resulted in victory for Al Milnar over Johnny Babich in the second game Milnar was touched for eight hits and Babich nine

The Cleveland stadium crowd numbered 18 008 The Indians are idle today They play Washington here tomorrow night

Get In the Swim

By JOHNNY WEISSMULLER
Former World Speed Champion

Weissmuller with Ann Rutherford as his pupil illustrates the correct arm stroke for the American crawl

* * *

(Fifth in a Series)

The arm motion of the American crawl stroke carried me to 5 records In this stroke the arms should be reached forward alternately in a relaxed manner palm flat as it enters the water with the catch made on a direct line in front of the shoulder The arm is pulled downward with the elbow perfectly straight until the hand is almost on a line with the hip when it is brought out of the water by bending and raising the elbow

If the swimmer breathes from the left the breath is taken just as the left hand is brought out of the water and just as the right hand makes the catch

Practice the arm movement and the breathing first then coordinate it with the leg movement to be explained in the next article

Bees' New Find Just Had to Play Ball

BOSTON — Chester Ross's six brothers are ballplayers Chester Ross's wife used to play shortstop on a church girls softball team

It would seem to follow that Chester Ross is a ballplayer He is—and Hub City fans think he's one of the best newcomers in the National league

Chester came up from Evansville of the Three I league last September and joined the Bees for 11 games of National league seasoning He peppered the ball for a .323 average in those closing games. With Evansville during the season he had batted .306 and batted in 111 runs

Boston fans took the youngster to their hearts early this season when the rookie outfielder gave them their first glimpse of a Bee victory

Ruined Good Hurling Job

Kirby Higbe the Phils ace hurler was apparently carving another of those workmanlike victories of his and held a 2-0 lead over the Bees Two men found their way to the bases though, and Ross was up

He impolitely smacked a screaming triple then scored the winning run after a long fly That's what the fans like mostly about Ross That .320 average he was sporting at the end of 26 games this year looked good but it looked better to the grandstand and bleacher sitters because Chester's hits came at opportune times.

Ross a husky Buffalo boy takes no sass from anybody—he's a motor vehicle bureau worker in the off season This is only his second full season of professional baseball

Hartford Gloom

He played two months with Beaver Falls in 1937. In 1938 he was playing with Hartford—and how he was playing! On five successive days he hit home runs On the sixth day he suffered a leg injury that throttled him for the rest of the year

The moaning of Hartford baseball fans could be heard for miles in every direction

And if anything like that happens to Mr Ross this year you can expect some high powered moaning up around Boston way They like their rookie outfielder

Adolf Hitler's Record

IT IS a matter of historic record that assurance of safety was given in advance to every country invaded by Germany. The list of treaties and comforting words is sufficiently long to suggest that a false sense of security is a detail of Nazi diplomatic technique.

This is a vital matter for the United States and all other governments in this hemisphere. As the war continues, an attempt will be made to soothe new world apprehension about the result of German victory. Chancellor Hitler already has taken the initial step in an interview with Karl H. Von Wiegand, "Das Schwarze Korps," publicity organ of the Nazi Blackshirt Elite Guard, likewise has published an article in which the United States is discussed in friendly and reassuring terms. There is no reason, says Das Schwarze Korps, for this country to involve itself in the war; Germany has no ambitions which threaten this country's interests. That is the party line.

Unfortunately, the Nazi regime cannot be taken at its word. It has been amazingly skillful at furnishing reassurance. When Neville Chamberlain was prime minister of England, he actually believed peace had been assured at Munich "for our time." King Leopold of Belgium actually believed his country's neutrality would be honored. On the occasion of each new act of violence, before war began, Chancellor Hitler declared there would be no further occasion for violence—but there always was. It was cumulative distrust of his word which finally undermined confidence in everything but his worst possible intentions.

The United States has no choice but to proceed on the theory that it is going to have to meet force with greater force to protect itself. The international situation which Germany has created by its policy of aggression permits no hope of security, except as it can be maintained by military strength.

Quick Sale for a Crystal Ball

LEGISLATORS are going to need a crystal ball to decide the question of how to get maximum results from the November vote, otherwise known as separating the ballot.

Main purpose of the separation would be to brush off coat tail riders. Thus, Gov. Bricker would like to run against Martin L. Davey, but would like to be sure Mr. Davey didn't pick up a lot of unearned increment by being on the ticket with a vote-getter like Franklin D. Roosevelt, or Sen. Donahey.

In the meantime, however, the safeguard might look to members of Mr. Bricker's crowd like an attempt to shake himself loose from the Republicans. If Mr. Bricker has anything to gain or lose by being on the same ballot with other Republicans, it should be gained or lost cooperatively, as some of the brethren see it. The matter must be threshed out in the special session of the legislature which convenes today.

But of course everything depends on how the tickets shape up. It is conceivable the Republicans might separate the ballot (the Democrats, counting on Mr. Roosevelt don't want to) then have to sit up all night before election day next November to paste them back together. It's not the kind of a decision to be made offhand.

Haste Isn't Efficiency

IT IS painfully plain that congress has confused speed and efficiency again, the way it did in 1933 when bills were passed first and read afterward.

There is a good excuse for steam-rolling emergency defense measures so work can be started immediately, but why the rush on the tax bill? Or to put it plainly, isn't a billion dollar tax bill more important than early adjournment?

The house has passed something known as the revenue act of 1940 by a vote of 396 to 6. Imposition of gag rule and the lopsided vote, according to the Democratic chairman of the ways and means committee, would convince the world that "a democracy can act with amazing promptness." The fact remains that the bill, which makes sweeping revision of tax levies, is not well understood by congressmen—and as for promptness, the fastest moving voting body in the world is the German reichstag.

If congressmen want to convince their constituents they're capable of taking an emergency in their stride, hasty action on a billion dollars' worth of new taxes is not a stirring demonstration. The same careless legislative tactics can be blamed for some of the billions of expense that are causing the government to tackle an emergency with a national debt of 43 billion dollars.

News Behind the News

Left Wing New Dealers Call for Combined Defense and Public Works Program.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 17—Those who control the speaking tube to Mr. Roosevelt's left ear have been hollering upstairs to get him to double his national defense outlay and shoot a $10,000,000,000 shot into the economic system.

If any identification of these is necessary, they are the spenders, reading from left to further left: Chairman Eccles of federal reserve; official White House economic ghost, Laughlin Currie; official will-of-the economic-wisp, Commerce Secretary Hopkins, and a man who is in charge of the interior department whose name I can never remember.

Paul Mallon

The plan they broadly outlined to the President on the Q. T. is basically a public works scheme with secondary defense implications—such projects as the construction of superhighways like Hitler's autobahnen, bypasses around large cities, tunneled railroad bridges under rivers, duplicate auto bridges, etc.

Their argument to the Chief Executive is that the present $4,000,000,000 program (which provides for only $3,200,000,000 the next year) will not cure unemployment because it will not absorb idle unskilled labor. In effect what they want is to try their old social spending theory on the truly grand scale which they now think is necessary to make it work.

No Action Yet

Mr. Roosevelt received the scheme some days ago and the spenders have blown their White House tube-whistle several times since, but according to their story the President just sits there and says nothing. They attribute his failure to take up the project to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's contrary counsel.

Gradual expansion of the defense program is certain but any further steps the President recommends are likely to fall short of a new public works program, at least until the tax bill is passed.

Housing Group Rivalry

A quiet meeting of representatives of various government housing agencies, called to coordinate their defense activities, has adjourned hurriedly in discoordination.

Competition between the United States housing authority, federal housing administration and other housing units has been sharp all along, but it reached its height just before the coordinating gathering assembled. Nathan Straus, head of USHA, called in his field workers for a pep talk which possibly was designed to get them together behind Mr. Roosevelt's broad proposal to produce housing facilities in small towns where new national defense factories are going to be created. He may have been overwhelmed by facing, for once, an enthusiastic and uncritical audience, or perhaps the cooling system did not work. At any rate in a burst of great zeal he prophesied his USHA could do the whole job—and by telephone.

When this news reached his competitors in FHA, there seemed no use holding a coordination meeting that day. Mr. Roosevelt's agents adjourned it to allow tempers to cool.

Too Late

Congressional comment was almost completely lacking on Premier Reynaud's second appeal for American aid. Legislators shook their heads sadly. Not for quotation, they agreed Reynaud wanted a declaration of war and it was too late either for that or for any materials currently dispatched to do any good.

Congressional sentiment has progressed Allies-ward the past 10 days but not to the extent of Mr. Roosevelt's Charlottesville speech.

Renamed

Name of the "isolationists" who have been pressed to abandon their stand, has been changed correspondingly by their administration cloakroom critics to "the vacillationists."

On The Record

Defense Program Employing Military, Economic and Political Means Urged.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

UNLESS we see with crystal clearness what we are preparing to defend ourselves against all our defense plans will be partial and even futile.

The United States of America is menaced in its independence, freedom and institutions, as are all other states, however, organized, by an international revolutionary movement, spreading itself by the sword and by the methods of criminal conspiracy. This revolutionary movement has, under the command of a single leader, the resources, political, diplomatic, economic and military of a great nation; the German, which has already taken a large part of Europe under its "protectorate." It has also subjugated by fear all the small states east of the Rhine, has paralyzed, or perhaps won over to itself a second revolutionary power, Russia, which temporarily at least is assisting it in limited ways, and has persuaded Italy to join it in open war on what is left of Europe and Europe's empires and dominions, which are worldwide.

Dorothy Thompson

Armed power is only one weapon of this conspiracy, the aim of which is the subjugation of the world.

That is what we are up against.

Now, a defense program against such a movement requires more than guns, battleships, airplanes and submarines. The total war requires the total defense. The total defense means the co-ordination of the military, political, and economic means under a government representative of the whole people, and under a defense plan than can be executed by a board with complete authority.

Defense Needs Discussed

It is necessary to have a government representative of the whole people—that is to say of both major political parties—because otherwise such a defense plan can easily be used to intrench one party in permanent power. It is necessary to have a defense executive with authority, because without authority, the necessary co-ordination is impossible. Congress must be responsible for the plan and the objectives, but a board of the most disinterested and competent men, free of minor political partisanship, must have the power to put that plan into operation, with the greatest dispatch and the greatest freedom.

I am presuming that we wish to oppose this movement. If we do not wish to do so, there is no sense in any armament program whatsoever. We are threatened by no other force in the world today, nor will we be throughout this epoch. We can, if we wish to do so, come to terms with that force, as the Premier of Brazil seems to have indicated his willingness to do. Coming to terms will not only cost us America as we have known it, but it will cost us America as most of us can dream it. Inasmuch of Americans now wish to oppose that force, and a strong minority of patriots will continue to oppose it with their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, an official coming to terms will open us to the serious risk of internal strife. But so, also, will a half-hearted and incomplete opposition, for in the twilight of a dubious and divided policy the conspiracy to destroy the country from within will flourish and gather strength.

Presuming that we wish to oppose it, we should immediately give unqualified and unlimited support to the Allies, by every political, economic and military means, making their cause our own and preparing to help defend it with their armies and their navies as long as they can hold out, clearly aware that every ounce of the enemy's strength that they dissipate is an advantage for us.

Complete Opposition Urged

We must, at the same time, make that opposition complete, within and without. We cannot successfully fight Nazism with Nazis and their fellow-travelers in our midst and treated as friends, and that includes the Communists. We cannot wage war with any enemy except on something like equal terms. This is a lesson to be learned from the experience of Czechoslovakia, Norway, Holland, Belgium, England and France.

It is now three years since the Nazi government openly announced at Stuttgart, at a meeting of "Germans Living Abroad" and through the mouth of the foreign minister himself that "whoever lives abroad as a German is working primarily in the interest of the German Fatherland."

The Dies Committee knows, first, that the homeland of every non-naturalized German, not a provable refugee, is not the United States but Germany; that the homeland of every Communist is not the United States, but Russia. It knows, furthermore, that Nazis and Communists are organized here along exactly the authoritarian lines on which they are organized in their own countries. And Italian-Americans are being organized in the same way. It knows that although no anti-Nazi

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, June 17, 1930. Announcement was made that 16 Boy Scouts of Troop No. 5 would take over the reins of city government in Marion Wednesday. Herman Rhu Jr. was to be mayor, Thomas Struthers service director, Jerome Brown safety director, John Langley auditor, Robert Zink solicitor, Robert Cass municipal judge, Merle Zieg health commissioner, Hayes Newby assistant health commissioner, Carl Hess city clerk, Herman Ammann city engineer, Lee Kleinmaier assistant city engineer, Charles Elicker fire station No. 1, Charles Willis fire station No. 2, Lawrence Randall fire station No. 3, Robert Kramer police chief, William Tierney street commissioner, Wilbur Shannon superintendent of sewage treatment works, Clare Jacoby sanitary inspector, John Thibaut milk and food inspector and George Setterfield City hospital superintendent.

Miss Marguerite Snyder and James E Chambers were united in marriage by Dr. C. E. Turley, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Snyder, on North State street.

U. A. Nystrom, secretary and auditor of the Fairfield Engineering Co., went to Syracuse, N. Y., to attend the international conference of the Association of Cost Accountants.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, June 17, 1920.

Warren G. Harding in a statement at Washington, made it clear that as the Republican nominee for the presidency he would not make a "one-man" campaign but that it would be conducted with due regard for every shade of Republican opinion. "I shall see every Republican it is physically possible for me to meet," he said. "I will get the views of every party man without regard to faction and I shall not consider the question of party differences in connection with these conferences." A letter was received from the American club of Pittsburgh asked Senator Harding to set a date when members of the club might visit him in Marion. The letter said 500 members of the club were prepared to go to his home town in full marching order, to give him an ovation.

The senator and his advisors began preparations to study labor problems. He received a telegram from various labor groups, pledging their support, many from labor leaders in Ohio. The first vice president of the U. S. Potters association at Trenton, N. J., wired, "Eastern potters unanimously and enthusiastically congratulate you and pledge our hearty and undivided support to your campaign."

In Marion it was announced that should Senator Harding return home on Monday, July 5, as tentatively planned, the Independence day celebration would be converted into a mammoth homecoming for him, in which the Marion Civic association, the American Legion and all other organizations of the city would unite. All arrangements for the Independence day celebration were halted until definite word about the date of Mr. Harding's return was received. Arrangements were talked over in a meeting of the Civic association at the courthouse. D. R. Crissinger presided. He said, "We have work for every Marion booster." French Crow announced that the association's executive committee had organized with election of Mr. Crissinger as president, Josiah Bindley and J. A. Schroeter, vice presidents, J. E. Waddell, treasurer, Mr. Crow, secretary, and H. F. Palmer, G. F. Larle, Streeter G. Smith and G. A. Artman, assistant secretaries.

Various committee chairmen were called to meet Friday. They were F. B. Morrison, finance; H. R. Adams, transportation; T. H. Guthery, hotels and rooms; R. T. Lewis, advertising; J. L. Price, automobiles; George T. Geran, parades and celebrations; Mayor T. E. Andrews, safety. W. H. Holverstott, public highways; D. A. Frank, decorations; G. F. Larls, music; Dr. C. W. Sawyer, medical.

Steps were taken to guard against overcharging visitors to the city during the Harding campaign.

Uncle Sam's Gold Hoard

70 Per Cent of World Supply Here—More Coming.

ONE of the things Nazis proclaim they are fighting against is the "tyranny of gold," reminiscent of the phraseology of William Jennings Bryan.

Without benefit of publicity the metal has been streaming from war-ridden Europe to America in a golden flood. Gold assets of the U. S. treasury amounted to $19,362,182,182 on June 12. A year ago they were $16,008,915,154.

In addition, the federal reserve bank of New York holds in its vaults huge stores of glittering bars for the account of central European banks. The total as of May 31 was $1,270,000,000, and perhaps as much as $500,000,000 has been added since then.

All told, the United States has in its possession at least 70 per cent of all the monetary gold in the world—and the nation which threatens to dominate Europe and much of the rest of the world intends to destroy its value if it can.

SOON after Hitler came to power in 1933, Germany shipped out all but a few million dollars worth of its monetary gold in payment of debts. Thereafter, it proceeded to do business with the rest of the world on a barter basis.

It has not hesitated, however, to use gold to make foreign payment when it could get it. The countries it has invaded have tried desperately to ship out their gold in time to save it, which explains the influx of the metal here. The Nazis may complain about the "tyranny of gold," but their complaint is based on necessity, not conviction.

This is an indication of gold's value in the long run. Banking authorities in Washington and Wall street, while recognizing the danger implicit in possession of the majority of the world's monetary gold, are confident it will remain the chief international method of reckoning value.

The United States, they believe, will have no difficulty putting gold to work when the time comes. Anything like free enterprice and trade requires a readily exchanged standard of value. The German barter system is too inflexible to stand up in the long run. Even Germany must have a medium of exchange.

PENDING a return to usefulness of the United States gold hoard, what is being done with the metal? The Federal Reserve Bulletin supplied an answer in it June issue. As summarized by the Wall Street Journal, this is how gold is used:

"The buried gold is represented by gold certificates — in form, 'warehouse certificates' — which are 'in use' so far as there is 'use' for them. These actually function precisely as the gold would function if it were coined and treated as it used to be in former days. The only difference between those days and today is that if coined today it would—presumably — be coined at the ratio of $35 per fine ounce instead of $20.67, and that the gold certificates in use today are not used in circulation but only as bank reserves and reserves for other forms of paper currency.

"It is not that this difference has in any way inhibited the use of our gold; it is that the opportunity for its full use does not exist, and this for reasons which have no connection whatever with our present treatment of the metal. The enormous reserves in our banking system are the direct proof of this. Their size is the measure of 'unemployment' for our gold stocks, and this unemployment would exist if our gold were resting in the vaults of the federal reserve as it did during the last war, or in the vaults of the commercial banks, as it used to before the federal reserve system was founded in 1914. Neither our currency needs nor our needs for bank reserves, as currency and bank credit are in use today, are sufficient to employ the full stock of gold now available to secure each."

"WE have had in times past similar situation," continues the Wall Street Journal. "We have seen periods of large bank reserves and periods of small ones. We have seen times—in the nineties—when gold reserves to secure government paper currency seemed insufficient. Never

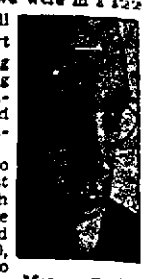
Preparedness

Old Schoolers Right After All; Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Liberty in the United States.

By DAMON RUNYON

OUR idea of preparedness is to go about it as if a war was coming up next Tuesday—not just get halfway ready, figuring to complete the job if somebody starts boffing us around. We think preparedness means getting all set to knock the other guy loose from his dandruff the instant he starts a left jab.

In short, we think the United States ought to be acting right now as if we were in a state of war. That means doing all the things that we are just sort of mulling over and doing them on about 10 times as big a scale as we are now contemplating—and in a hurry—and leaving them that way for generations to come.



Morgan Beatty

If anybody feels disposed to shudder at the idea of the cost of that business, let us refresh your mind with the bill to the United States for the World war, which was $35,000,000,000, plus 350,500 casualties. Also plus billions for economic readjustment. Also plus billions in pensions. And the account is not yet settled.

If preparedness, according to our idea, costs half, or two thirds of the cash figure mentioned above, but minus the casualties, we still come out the big winner. We will have a going concern of preparedness that will be of enormous value to the generations to come, if they keep it going. Which is probably too much to hope for.

ASIDE FROM guaranteeing the protection of this hemisphere, a thoroughly prepared United States may be able to help the Allies in the unhappy event they are defeated, when the dictators start cutting up the swag. Right now they probably would not pay any attention to our voice, but a voice that carries the authority of vast armament is always listened to.

It is no time for reproaches, but maybe if we were fully prepared now a lot of things that have happened lately would not have come off. Mussolini might have listened with more respect to President Roosevelt. Members of the old school of preparedness thought in the United States must have strange reflections as they note the course of events.

Militarists, they used to call these old schoolers. They were always preaching that the eagles of Uncle Sam should be kept so well nourished that at the slightest rustling of their wings the world would sit up and take notice. That this nation should ever be so equipped and prepared that nowhere on the face of the globe would anyone dare an act of insolence or disrespect to its name, its symbols, or its citizens.

THEY preached that, dedicated to peace, the United States of America should nonetheless keep armed to the teeth that it might not only protect its own rights, but be able to rebuke oppressors of the weak and helpless and be a mighty influence for order in the world.

Compulsory military service, the biggest army, the biggest navy, the biggest guns, offshore outposts—all these things that you head talked of now were embodied in the idea of the old schoolers that this country should be the strongest nation on earth, yet gentle in its strength.

It was not an idea born of any sudden emergency. It was not an idea of a few weeks, or a few years. It was an idea that has been consistently urged by some representatives of the old school since they saw the nation wallow clumsily in the most frightful unpreparedness 42 years ago and saw it going through the same agony 22 years back.

LONG before the time of the oldest living representative of the old school, other staunch Americans were preaching this same gospel—shouting to their fellow citizens that eternal vigilence is the price of liberty. In every generation of this nation's history there have been level-headed, far-reaching, if somewhat hard-bitten men, who were not deceived by altruistic fancies about human nature and who realized the truth of the saying that Providence is on the side of those with the heaviest armament.

But there never were enough of these men at one time to make their idea stick beyond the passing of an emergency. Their argument that emergencies of this kind never really die, but just lie dormant awhile, always went unheeded. Dreamers were always driving at enduring peace when the biggest guns, the biggest ships, and the biggest armies that the old schoolers contended for as permanent institutions would no longer be needed.

So unpopular in quiet times that they were usually reduced to complete silence, the old schoolers may perhaps be pardoned for indulging in a brief, grim smile at the way their school of thought has suddenly returned to great favor in the United States of America.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

Timothy Wilkins, an honest and enterprising man who lived with him family across the Hocking river from Athens, disappeared one day in 1828 enroute home from town.

His boat was found where he usually crossed the river, but no body could be located. Wilkins eventually was forgotten. Mrs. Wilkins married a Mr. Goodrich.

In 1834 a rumor started by an old neighbor of the Wilkinses that Timothy was alive and would return soon. Wilkins himself had deliberately started the rumor by mailing a letter to the neighbor, because he did not want to shock his wife by a too sudden reappearance.

He knew of his wife's second marriage upon his return and arranged to meet Goodrich and Mrs. Wilkins-Goodrich. Much excitement ensued. Goodrich and Wilkins agreed to leave the choice up to their mutual wife. She chose her original husband and Goodrich conceded his loss.

LA GRANDE, Ore.—A long unopened book in Ed Rogers' collection revealed what may be a carbon copy of General U. S. Grant's terms of surrender to General Robert E. Lee at Appomattox courthouse, April 9, 1865.

The paper, apparently marked by duplicating material, was faded and torn, hidden away for years in a second hand store book.

Library references say that General Horace Porter, Grant's aide-de-camp, penned a description of the surrender. Grant complied by using a manifold order book. The wording of the paper found by Rogers checked with Porter's version.

GOLD

before in currency and banking history has a paper currency or have bank deposits been so amply secured in gold as they are in this country today That security would be no greater if the gold were itself resting where the gold certificates rest

So far as concerns its use by the government for purposes other than bank or currency reserves it must be remembered that for the greater part of the gold stock the government is custodian not proprietor Its proprietorship is limited to the gold in the stabilization fund and in its various treasury funds and does not extend to that in bank reserves So far as its redistribution among foreign nations is concerned that could be accomplished only by loans where loans would have to be subscribed by private parties so as to enable the use of the bank reserves

THE only time—since gold was nationalized — when the use of it was prohibited was when the so called sterilization experiment was in progress the article explains in conclusion What that amounted to was simply the borrowing of money by government from private sources in order to offset the credit established by those sources as they received the gold from abroad in the course of their business thus preventing the gold from adding to idle bank credit in the commercial banks

The sum and substance of the matter is that our gold stocks are being used so far as we have present use for them and are ready for more use as fast as we can find more opportunities

French Navy Big Question Mark in Armistice Plans

By The Associated Press

France's navy the second most powerful in Europe is one of the big questions marks in any peace settlement between France and Germany

There is no indication whether the French fleet might be taken over by Britain to bolster the defense of her own shores and carry on operations in the Mediterranean or seized by Germany to bring her own fleet with that of Italy up to approximate equality with or superiority to the British navy

Despite censorship some units are known to have been serving with the British fleet in the Mediterranean coasts

At the start of the war France's navy smaller than that of either the United States or Japan was second to Britain's in Europe—larger than Italy's or Germany's—although many of her ships were old

Britain had 15 capital ships and a total tonnage of more than 1 390 000 France 7 capital ships and a total of 575 000 tons, Italy 6 capital ships and a total tonnage of 550 000

Besides the capital ships France had 7 heavy cruisers 12 cruisers 1 aircraft carrier 59 destroyers 78 submarines, and one mine laying cruiser

Her merchant marine in 1939 total 1 282 ships of 2 952 975 gross tons

BERLIN SAYS ALSACE, LORRAINE CUT OFF

Armies of Germany Reported Lashing Deep Into France

By The Associated Press

BERLIN June 17 — Lashing deep into France with deadly strokes in two directions, Germans claimed today her armies had cut off Alsace and Lorraine and the Maginot line and had smashed southward into central France to take historic Orleans and cross the Loire river

Thus for the second time in the war the Germans said they had split the French army into two parts for piecemeal attack

The political and military backbone of France already is broken said authorized sources in summing up the reports of smashing military successes and the fall of the French government with establishment of what was regarded here as a military regime under Marshal Petain

No separate armistice with France is imaginable except in terms of complete capitulation authorized sources said

It was asserted that France was regarded as England's sword which by all means must be wrenched from England's hand

Informed observers explained that an armistice short of capitulation would leave the French forces free for reorganization for a possible smash against the Italians This Germans never would permit they said

We continue to fight declared a spokesman in discussing what he termed rumors and conjecture of French capitulation offers

(Marshal Petain said over the radio that it is necessary to try to end the fighting)

U S CABINET STUDIES PROBLEM OF SURPLUSES

To Put Question Before Other American Republics

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 17—The White House announced today that with a view to submitting the matter to the other American governments a cabinet committee today would conclude a study of the most effective manner of disposing profitably of export surpluses in the western hemisphere

A formal statement was issued announcing the meeting of the secretaries of state treasury agriculture and commerce It offered no further explanation however, and did not disclose what export surpluses were under consideration

But there were indications that the United States was thinking of attempting to draw the American republics and possibly Canada into some form of international cartel which would attempt to control prices and marketing of such things as wheat, cotton beef coffee and copper

Back of the meeting too, it was reported in some quarters was a desire to prepare the Americas for the time when Adolf Hitler might become economic dictator of Europe

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Penniless Olga Steels Herself to Ask for Aid while Madge Reviews Past Events

TAKE just as long as you like, Madge," indeed I was glad of the opportunity to finish mending the steps of mother's old chair Robert had given me the autograph letter from Oriental pasha possessed with his insistence that she give up her career when she would marry him and of another realization also when Harry Lee soon came back into her life that her love as well as her duty called her back to her acting about Robert Savarin broken engagement and we hoisted little niece of him until Lillian and I were summoned by the ringing of the doorbell

A Strange Legacy

He did not detain me long in that knotted tangle of his feelings displayed everything before me in methodical detail He showed Robert Marion to insist that I accept a substantial fee for the help I had given Peter and her family But as he knew that Harry Underwood's jealous pride would effectually prevent Lillian's acceptance of the legacy under ordinary circumstances and explained all this I made a memorandum that was all I should be made a most literate request of me He asked that I permit him to will the fortune in question to me with only a moral promise that eventually I would turn the bulk of it over to Lillian and Marion and that if beforehand either of them needed financial assistance I would provide it He also told me that a certain portion of the inheritance was for me personally that although I had not hurt a dying man by a refusal of his request I had deeply resented never to touch his legacy feeling that it still should go to Lillian and Marion

Once in the years since Robert Savarin's death I had drawn a sum of money from the legacy drawn it with the full approval of the dead artist's sister who however made it plain that I alone was the arbiter of the legacy

When Ronald Brixton Yale college man and youthful sweetheart of Lillian's winsome daughter Marion fanned the stopping of his education and social disgrace because of the imminent ruin of his boozer stepfather Samuel Brixton I felt that if ever there was justification for using a part of the legacy it was coming to the aid of the Brixtons The loan had been justified It had put Samuel Brixton upon his feet and he had repaid the loan in large installments with interest I had received one of them but the day before and it was the sum free to loan Olga

A Penniless Queen

I had no qualms about lending the money again or even of giving it permanently to Olga should she need it Lillian would approve I was secure when we should reach the time for me to give an accounting of the trust Robert Savarin had vested in me

Olga's soft voice brought my reverie to an abrupt end

If you're not out of all patience with me Madge" she said "I'd like to talk to you now

"There's no question of patience" I assured her warmly "I think I should like first to tell you that your conjecture as to what I wanted was accurate I need a loan of money very much May I tell you why"

Not unless you wish I returned It is not at all necessary for me to know why you wish it How much do you wish"

That I shall have to ask you she returned surprisingly

But how"—I stammered

That does sound absurd doesn't it" she asked But I haven't the faintest idea of what I shall need And—I do not know when I can repay you I am penniless you know

Seeing the Patient

A patient writes I saw a picture the other day called The Doctor of the Future" He was in a dark room reading X-ray plates and heart tracings and laboratory tests How close is it to realization that a doctor can tell about a patient this way without seeing the patient"

In my opinion it is far from close I believe that 98 per cent of all valuable information that a doctor gets for purposes of diagnosis and treatment comes from talking with the patient and examining with the eyes and hands and the stethoscope In fact I gave a clinic at some high-grade doctors not long ago in which I told them all about the laboratory finds and did not show the patient and asked them to make a diagnosis There wasn't no diagnosis that was within a thousand per cent of being right When the patient walked in it was perfectly evident that he had a form of nervous disease called multiple sclerosis

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, June 18

Judging by the lunar transits, this may prove to be a day on which things move at high tempo and with much aggressiveness, if not wholly drastic force. And this with much promise of worthwhile progress and in productive channels of new interest and endeavor. Work with groups, for social or welfare ends, is particularly active and prosperous.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of swift action, with matters of fresh interest and new objectives moving into prosperous and progressive fields, especially when in joint operation with groups for welfare or social advancement.

A child born on this day may have a high order of intelligence and creative ability. And while impulsive, tempestuous and critical, yet will have active interest in promoting the advancement and well-being of its fellows.

DEDICATION SERVICE

BUCYRUS, June 17—Paul Lee, St. James Episcopal church organist, presented a short program of familiar music on the carillon bells at the dedicatory services held Sunday afternoon at the fire department, where the bells were installed several months ago, the gift of John Q. Shunk, Bucyrus manufacturer. William C. Beer Jr., was the dedicatory speaker and he was introduced by Mayor William C. Whitesmire. Mr. Shunk also spoke briefly.

A coin operated machine has been invented to seal an envelope, sheet of writing paper and an air mail stamp at the same time.
